Lesson Plan (Facilitator's Guide-Sample)

Implementation Time: ~1 Hour

Materials: Desk Reference, student guidebook, laptops, log-ins username/password sheets, seating arrangement chart, name tags, pencils/pens, attachment guidebook, and sign-in/sign-out sheet. There should be a surplus of materials at least 5-10 percent more than the anticipated attendance.

Equipment: Laptop/computer/tablet with the presentation software, desks/chairs, monitors and headphones.

Desk References and attachment guidebooks will also be available in a separate file preloaded on each laptop/computer/tablet.

Arrangement of Room: The classroom should be set up with a space in between each student and all students should be front facing where the facilitator can see the eyes of the learner. After the examinations begin, the facilitator should walk around the room to answer any technical questions and/or assist the course takers.

24-Hour Checklist

Day before course: Verify room availability/assignment, as well as the list of equipment; test all laptops/computers/tablets that will be used and verify the software works appropriately.

One-two hours prior to course: Verify room assignments and needs for the student seating is correct based on the seating arrangement chart. Be sure you have the five-ten percent surplus number of copies of the items mentioned in the equipment list. As students sign-in/out, give each course taker a Desk Reference, student guidebook, name tag, and pencils/pens.

Start of course: It is possible for facilitators to receive instructions in many forms. In this lesson plan, Robert Gagne's Nine Events are used as a guide. The first event is gaining attention, for which a short video is going to be used. The following pages illustrate how the lesson plan will appear in the facilitator's guide:

Gaining Attention—4 minutes

Show Frame 1

Slide Content: Welcome to the "_____" lesson.

Prestart: Start the course by introducing yourself and welcoming all students. All course participants should be on the welcome screen at the beginning of the course.

Proceed to Frame 2

Slide Content: Background Information

In your own words . . .

Key contributors will have different levels of understanding regarding background information of _____. Some roles will require less involvement in the overall _____ process.

While key contributors may know how to apply applicable _____ rates, they may not have a full understanding of how they are determined.

Ultimately, however, individuals who understand how the rates are being determined will have the necessary information to better perform _____.

Direction—2 minutes

Have students select the "Next" button to continue on their devices.

Proceed to Frame 3

Slide Content: Learning Objectives

In your own words . . .

Upon successful completion of this module, you should be able to do each of the following objectives:

- Identify key roles of the _____ review.
- List the objectives of the _____ review.
- Define key terms related to the _____ review.

Recall—5 minutes

Proceed to Frame 4

Slide Content: Statistics of the _____ Review

In your own words . . .

It is not uncommon for key contributors to know how to apply the relevant _____ rates to a project, but they may not have a clear understanding of where the rates come from.

However, in the end, individuals who understand how _____ are calculated will be able to better perform their job if they have the necessary information to do so.

Proceed to Frame 5

Slide Content: Background Information—Who is this course for?

In your own words . . .

This course is for government _____, _____ _____, _____, _____, and engineering representatives who want to understand the purpose of an _____ and/or obtain a deeper understanding of a _____ analysis.

Proceed to Frame 6

Slide Content: Background Information—Who will this course cover?

In your own words . . .

This course covers the _____ and will help you become familiar with the skills required to conduct _____ that _____ both _____ in a _____. Ultimately, the goal is to _____.

Proceed to Frame 7

Slide Content: Background Information—Who uses this information?

In your own words . . .

The _____ uses _____ reviews to evaluate the _____ of the _____, methods, _____, equipment, _____ operating systems, and management.

Content—15 minutes

Have students open their Desk Reference and turn to page 23 and (to themselves) read the two definitions on the page.

Proceed to Frame 8

Slide Content: Background Information, Cont.—Types of Reviews

In your own words . . .

> According to _____, there are two types of _____ reviews. The boxes on page 23 of the Desk Reference cover the definitions for types of reviews. Quickly read over page 23 for the definitions as well as the example.

Now have the students turn their Desk References to page 25 and (to themselves) read the roles and descriptions of each member of the review team.

Proceed to Frame 9

Slide Content: Key Roles

In your own words . . .

> As you have read, the key roles hold much importance to this process, and each have specific contributions to the review. Because this review process is so extensive, splitting the responsibilities in this way have been proven to help the Government perform better reviews. These individual responsibilities are key to performing successful _____ reviews.

Application-Feedback Level I—5 minutes

Proceed to Frame 10

Slide Content: Knowledge Review 1

In your own words . . .

> Now that you're familiar with the team members, it's time to see what you remember. Read the description of the team member's duties and identify the role that best fits those duties. Select the appropriate role based on the team member's duties, then select the Next button.

Application-Feedback Level II—8 minutes

Proceed to Frame 11

Slide Content: Knowledge Review 2

In your own words . . .

> Now that you've identified whose job it is to do what, can you identify who should be the main point of contact when reviews are at a district level? How about the regional level? National level? Are there any instances where one of these individuals may not be needed? Gauge who you think should answer each of these questions and take a moment to think about it.

Make sure that everyone is following the instructions by making rounds in the room. Provide assistance to those who need it.

Have the students turn their Desk References to page 44 and (to themselves) read the roles and descriptions of each member of the review team. Also, have them skim over the table on Attachment F by clicking on the Menu tab of their devices.

Proceed to Frame 12

Slide Content: Key Terms

In your own words . . .

> Now look at the table of Attachment F by simply clicking on the MENU tab in the top right of your device. Once you find it, click on Attachment F to open. I want you all to skim over the table on the attachment while simultaneously looking at page 44 in the Desk Reference. Use both of these and compare the analysis portions to each other. Briefly discuss with the person sitting next to you.
>
> These terms will give you a better understanding of what the roles are intended to do, as well as help you better understand the review process.

Application-Feedback Level III—10 minutes

Proceed to Frame 13

Slide Content: Knowledge Review 3

In your own words . . .

> As soon as you have finished working with your partner, make any necessary changes to the table. Please let me know if you have any questions so I can assist.

Monitor the room and aid those who need it.

Evaluation—10 minutes

Proceed to Frame 14

Slide Content: Purpose of the Review

In your own words . . .

> I would like to have one of you show your table and describe how you decided which term for the analysis portion aligned which each other.

In your own words . . .

> Please ensure your table looks like this one and let me know if any assistance is needed. If you need help after class, I'll stay to help. I want you to leave with a table that links these analysis points since they are extremely important to the overall review process.
>
> Thank you for volunteering.

Closure—10 minutes

Proceed to Frame 15

Slide Content: Final Review Information

In your own words . . .

Before we leave today, I want to give you some important information. Here are the keys to the review, and they cannot be overstated. Take this worksheet of all the information you need and review it on your way out.

Thanks for attending today and please complete the evaluation sheet you were handed when you signed in. As you sign out, you can just place it in a pile by the sign-out sheet near the door. Hope you all enjoy the rest of your day!

Close the session and help any course takers that have remaining questions. Be sure all students sign out using the sheet and tack each name off the seat arrangement chart as they leave.